SUMMARY

Shooting boards are mostly what I do. Armed with a script, ad copy, or a shot list and a director's/producer's/art director's instructions and collaboration, I combine all that with their visual references/location pix/sets/casting, then draw the frames. We revise, format and distribute as efficiently as possible.

My previous experience includes working as a card-carrying director of photography, a corporate and commercial producer, set designer and ad agency creative. All this varied experience combine to make me aware of the widest range of cross-departmental priorities.

I've also guest lectured in film production and pre-visualization at these colleges: NYU, SVA, Montclair State, Fordham, Hunter, Fairleigh Dickenson. I never went to art school. My ability to draw came from pixie dust and my Dad's side of the family.
